

Sea turtles, living in the ocean and yet getting caught in trash every day. Yet these innocent turtles are just trying to live without getting hurt. Harmless little creatures trying to get through the day without getting caught in a plastic net. But this was hard not to do and it wasn't just the sea turtles, it was fish or other sea creatures. They are surrounded in trash like a Gatorade cap. It is sad to see this, but imagine what it would be like to be a sea turtle...

I interviewed a turtle and here's what it said.

"Our whole goal is to make it through the day. When you are consistently surrounded in trash, sometimes when you go to shore you see people picking up trash, but it's not good enough. Sometimes you will see some people in a boat getting all of the tangled or hurt ones on their boat to take to land to help them and all of this is all very helpful. But it is not enough. Because we continue littering, and even if one person stops, it is not enough because the amount that we litter is crazy. You helping that is awesome, but trash is still going to pop up at a park or really anywhere.

"So STOP LITTERING!"
