

The Mexican Spotted Owl

Hi I am a Mexican Spotted Owl. Did you know that my tail is brown. And young owls that are less than 5 months old have a downy appearance, and females are larger than males.

Mexican spotted owls habitat range includes Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas, and Utah.

We have very thick feathers that make snowies one of the world's heaviest owls. We weigh about as much as three basketballs.

Mexican spotted owls can stay warm in negative 20 Fahrenheit. Their home is in the northern regions of North America, Europe, and Asia.

In conclusion, my family and friends need help. So if you can please ask your parents and tell them the forest is dying and ruining our habitat because you should help us and please take care.

Sources:

Endangered.org

Kids.britannica.com

Kids.nationalgeographic.com